

This website is operated by SKRALLS and its affiliated operations supporting professional services activities in the United Kingdom and India. SKRALLS is a consulting-led organisation providing advisory, digital transformation, technology, creative, and professional services to organisations across multiple sectors. Throughout these Terms of Use, references to “SKRALLS”, “we”, “us”, or “our” refer to the organisation responsible for operating this Website and the information made available through it. References to “this Website” refer to the SKRALLS website or any specific webpages accessed by users during their use of the site.

By accessing or using this Website, you acknowledge that you have read, understood, and agree to be bound by these Terms of Use. If you do not agree with these Terms, you must discontinue use of this Website immediately. Your continued use of this Website constitutes acceptance of these Terms and any revisions that may be introduced periodically.

The information, publications, materials, and resources contained on this Website are provided for general informational purposes only. While SKRALLS seeks to ensure that the information presented is accurate and relevant at the time of publication, we make no representation or warranty that the information is complete, accurate, or current. The content on this Website does not constitute professional advice of any kind, including consulting, legal, financial, or technology advice. Before making any decision or taking any action that may affect your organisation, operations, or finances, you should consult an appropriately qualified professional advisor. Your use of the information contained on this Website is entirely at your own risk.

Accessing this Website, downloading materials, submitting enquiries, or communicating with SKRALLS through the Website does not create any advisory, consulting, client, or professional relationship between you and SKRALLS. Any professional engagement with SKRALLS can only arise through a formal written agreement executed between the relevant parties.

Subject to compliance with these Terms of Use, visitors may view, download, print, and share materials available on this Website solely for informational and non-commercial purposes. Any copies must retain all copyright notices, trademarks, and proprietary notices associated with the original materials. Users must not modify, reproduce, distribute, republish, transmit, or commercially exploit any material from this Website without prior written permission from SKRALLS.

Unless otherwise indicated, all content available on this Website is owned by or licensed to SKRALLS and is protected by applicable intellectual property laws. This includes, without limitation, written content, advisory publications, frameworks, methodologies, graphics, visual designs, training materials, diagrams, reports, and digital assets. The SKRALLS name, logos, trade names, service identifiers, and associated brand elements are protected trademarks or proprietary identifiers. These elements may not be used in any manner without the prior written consent of SKRALLS. References to third-party organisations or trademarks appearing on this Website are provided solely for identification purposes and do not imply endorsement, affiliation, or approval.

This Website may allow users to submit enquiries, request information, download publications, or express interest in advisory services, digital solutions, recruitment initiatives, or training programmes. Users agree that any information submitted through the Website will be accurate, lawful, and not misleading. SKRALLS reserves the right to review, respond to, or decline any submission at its discretion.

SKRALLS may collect and process personal data in connection with the operation of this Website, including when users submit forms, download materials, or request information. Personal data may be used to respond to enquiries, deliver requested resources, or improve website functionality. Such processing is conducted in accordance with applicable data protection laws, including the United Kingdom General Data Protection Regulation and relevant data protection legislation. Further information regarding data collection and processing practices is available in the SKRALLS Privacy Policy and Cookie Policy.

This Website may contain links to external websites or resources maintained by third parties. These links are provided for informational convenience only. SKRALLS does not control, review, or accept responsibility for the content, security, policies, or practices of third-party websites. Users access such websites at their own discretion and risk.

This Website and all information contained within it are provided on an “as is” and “as available” basis without warranties of any kind, whether express or implied. SKRALLS does not guarantee that the Website will operate without interruption, error, or security vulnerabilities, or that it will be free from viruses or malicious code. To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, SKRALLS disclaims all warranties including, without limitation, warranties of accuracy, completeness, merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, and non-infringement.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, SKRALLS shall not be liable for any direct, indirect, incidental, consequential, special, or punitive damages arising out of or related to the use of this Website or reliance on any information contained within it. This includes, without limitation, damages relating to loss of profits, loss of business opportunities, loss of data, business interruption, or system failures, even if SKRALLS has been advised of the possibility of such damages.

Users must not attempt to compromise the security, availability, or integrity of this Website. Prohibited activities include introducing malicious software, attempting unauthorised access to restricted areas, interfering with website infrastructure, or engaging in activities that disrupt normal website operations. SKRALLS reserves the right to restrict or terminate access where misuse or suspicious activity is identified.

SKRALLS may revise or update these Terms of Use at any time by publishing revised terms on this Website. Such revisions become effective upon publication unless otherwise stated. Users are responsible for reviewing these Terms periodically. Continued use of the Website following any updates constitutes acceptance of the revised Terms.

These Terms of Use shall be governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of England and Wales. Any disputes arising in connection with these Terms or the use of this Website shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of England and Wales.

For enquiries relating to these Terms of Use or the operation of this Website, users may contact SKRALLS through the official contact information provided on this Website.